

Keep food supplements fresh and safe

Packaging for food supplements

Society's need for food supplements and healthcare products that can support physical and mental fitness is growing. For the aging baby boomers, maintaining their physical and mental performance is just as important as the performance-oriented, ambitious digital natives.

As a leading supplier for the international pharmaceutical and food industry, we offer food-safe and aroma-proof tins for dry and semi-dry food supplements.

For concentrates or liquids, we offer high-barrier Polyfoil® tubes with accurate dropper function, in which liquid supplements are safely packaged and remain fresh.

The latest tins are childproof and fully recyclable.
